Course Description

ECON 3001 - Industrial Economics I, is one of the elective courses offered by the Department of Economics. It is a level III applied micro economics course that the Department offers as it seeks to further support students in their quest to understand and indeed to excel.

The course components will expose the students along three main paths:

1. The basics of Industrial Organization
2. Modern Industrial Organization: Game Theory
3. Strategic Behaviour and Business Practices.

Please feel free to consult with me during the semester as any course problems/issues arise. Students are also encouraged to visit me during office hours to discuss various issues and concerns. Alternatively, the secretariat in the Economics Department Office (Room 203) will be pleased to arrange a special appointment if necessary.

Goals

This course aims to teach students how:

1. to apply the various tools and methods of micro and macro economic theory that was taught to them at Levels I and II to the industry.
2. to place the industrial economics taught in the Caribbean context.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this course students will be able to demonstrate the ability to gain an insight into firm behavior and public policy issues such as anti-trust, regulations, regulatory reform and game theory. Exposure to the theory and empirical work in industrial organization will give them an appreciation of the importance of case studies in expanding their knowledge of the field. Specifically, at the end of the course students will be able to:

- Distinguish between different categories of economic organizations and examine their strategic behaviour and business practices;
- Examine and analyse the use of Game theory in current firm behaviour/practice; and
- Develop a plan for solving a given problem in an industry using the relevant theories taught.

Course Delivery
