

On the 17th-18th November 2012 the first ever Trinidad & Tobago Bioblitz took place in Tucker Valley, Chaguaramas. The steep mountains, varied forests and the most accessible coral reefs in Trinidad made it an ideal location.

Based at Macqueripe Bay the volunteers found a grand total of 685 species with many interesting sightings including a Robinson's mouse opossum, a bushmaster snake, a new species of spider for Trinidad and a rare butterfly. Over 200 visitors joined in the fun, going on walks and viewing the displays.
