BACKGROUND

Rooted in a previous decade of groundbreaking work carried out by the Women and Development Studies Groups on all three campuses of The University of the West Indies, the Institute for Gender and Development Studies (formerly Centre for Gender and Development Studies) commemorates in 2013, the 20th Anniversary of its institutionalization on The University of the West Indies Campuses. The campus units have variously celebrated each of its milestones with public lectures and related activities. A major conference recognizing scholarly contributions was the Mona Academic Conference of 2003. This resulted in a significant publication, Gender in the 21st Century: Caribbean Perspectives, Visions and Possibilities, edited by Professors Barbara Bailey and Elsa Leo-Rhynie.

This, the second regional biennial symposium themed, “Continuities, Challenges and Transformations in Caribbean Gender Relations”, is hosted at the IGDS, St. Augustine Campus. Its academic precursor, the inaugural symposium of February 2011 was hosted by the IGDS, Nita Barrow Unit, Cave Hill Campus and was themed “Contemporary Issues in Caribbean Research on Gender and Feminism”. It aimed to promote interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary dialogues in the areas of Caribbean and diasporic research on gender, sexualities and feminism/s. It provided a forum for scholars at various stages of their careers to: present their research; encourage further research in gender studies and related disciplines; join the scholarly conversations on gender and sexualities studies and feminist theories; and produce an edited text to support undergraduate and graduate teaching and research.
Aims of the Conference

As our scholarly journey continues to thrive, this conference renews its desire to capture and map the legacy, and inform the future of interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary discourses in the areas of Caribbean and diasporic research on gender. This year’s content is expected to:

- Provide a forum for scholars at various stages, working in the field of gender and feminist theories and activism;
- Dialogue with the existing bodies of work on gender studies and feminist theories on the Caribbean and the Caribbean diaspora/s;
- Re-evaluate extant epistemological, theoretical and methodological approaches to gender and feminist scholarship in the region in order to generate relevant and sustainable policies and practices;
- Encourage further research in gender studies and related disciplines;
- Publish an edited text to support undergraduate and graduate teaching, research and outreach.
