THE INSTITUTE OF GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT STUDIES
ST. AUGUSTINE UNIT

REPORT
TO THE REGIONAL PLANNING AND STRATEGY COMMITTEE
FOR THE PERIOD
JUNE 2014 TO MAY 2015

FOR THE MEETING OF JUNE 8 TO 9 2015
CAVE HILL CAMPUS, BARBADOS
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Now into its third decade, the Institute for Gender and Development Studies deliberately set out this year to engage in an aggressive growth strategy for the next five years in each of its mandated areas of work.

The primary achievement were the curriculum review and proposed expansion of teaching options at undergraduate and graduate level, the successful tendering for research grants in particular the Research Development Impact Fund to carry out research on Work/Life Balance and Impact on Ageing, the outreach activities in particular the hosting of the Hazel Brown Conference in March 2015 in honour of women’s activist Hazel Brown, the establishment and inaugural meeting of the Gender Advisory Board and the rolling out of the UWI Gender Policy consultation process for St Augustine

Staff achievements in research, publication and outreach show evidence of dedication to advancing knowledge in their expert fields. It has been useful also to have the Fulbright Fellow Dr. Angelique Nixon for the year who fully supported the teaching and programming efforts of the Institute this year.

The Institute made a great effort to draw in and utilize the graduate students as part time tutors, research assistants and for administrative support in various events and activities. In doing so there has been a high level of collegiality and cooperation between staff and students and a pleasing and productive atmosphere. We lost the services of Mrs. Avril Patterson-Pierre as the Administrative Assistant who served the Institute soundly for six years to be replaced by Ms. Tennille Fanovich who brought considerable experience and know how of the university procedures from her previous posting. We have also been able to expand the outreach support staff with Ms. Patricia Hackett.

Among the main strengths is the current management structure which distributes the various portfolios of Graduate Studies, Teaching and Programming, Research and Outreach, Marketing and Communication equitably among academic and administrative staff.

Each of the initiatives that have been put in place in the current year is expected to be further realized in the coming year.
After twenty years of institutionalization, (added on to a previous ten years of ground breaking work in women and development studies), the IGDS can no longer claim youthfulness. It has recognized that in order to survive in the competitive university environment, grow and be counted as one of the stalwarts of the UWI enterprise, and live up to the excellence expected of Research Institutes, we must transform our way of seeing ourselves and thinking about what the IGDS may increasingly represent. First we must be a subject leader in gender locally, regionally and internationally. Second we must unequivocally demonstrate the relevance of our research and graduate studies undertaking whether in the more arcane areas of theory building and ideas generation as an academic institution, or in the correspondence of our research to policy, intervention and advocacy. Finally we must continue to ensure that the IGDS remains linked to the practice of feminism in this society and elsewhere, providing not only activist support for government and civil society groups, but delivering informed gender and feminist analysis with the issues and concerns that are publicly flagged.

To this end, the five year strategic plans of the IGDS (appended) also responds directly to the Quality Assurance Review, and to the imperative of Funding the Enterprise to facilitate the above as the IGDS/SAU attempts a bold step of expansion and mainstreaming with partners both within and outside of the UWI. We are actively and aggressively seeking funding from a variety of sources.

Our first target for fund raising and resource mobilization has been in the area of research dealt with extensively under Projects and Outreach. It is important to underscore here that in addition to attracting funds for existing and new research projects, we have imposed a 5% administrative fee on any research or outreach projects and consultancies in which staff of the Institute are involved.

The second strategy is that of expanding and diversifying our Teaching. This entails the introduction of new courses, the hosting of a series of Short Summer courses which attract a fee from participants, and co-hosting workshops in gender with other specialty disciplines: for example Gender Mainstreaming in International Relations through the IIR Diplomatic Academy, Gender and Global Governance, and Gender and the International and Regional Negotiating Machinery. A longer-term teaching strategy that requires additional funding to facilitate but which we have already initiated with fact finding on content, technology possibilities and budgets, is the development of a Professional Online Masters available for students who require training to enhance skills and develop their career potential. This is viewed, however, as an area for regional discussion and collaboration.

The third area of development is the establishment of the Gender Advisory Board (see Terms of Reference and Agenda - Inaugural Board Meeting May 13, 2015). The Gender Advisory Board is constituted primarily of members external to the University of the West Indies representing industry, commerce, finance and global communications. The role of this Board is to advise on future directions, guide on the relevance of our programming to serve the widest group of stakeholders, and to support our funding ventures.
UPDATE ON QUALITY ASSURANCE REPORT & ACTION PLAN

The Quality Assurance Report informed the Action/Operational plan. The Action plan was also developed with the experience of the previous programming history and challenges faced by the IGDS.

The areas that we have focused on and were successful in achieving gains over the reporting period were:

1. Stabilization of the Graduate Programme. This achieved the additional result of supporting graduate students as teaching and research staff to enhance their skills while ensuring their throughput by their proximity to the academic environment and thus to meeting their academic deadlines.

2. Increasing the undergraduate course offering with revised and new courses that are attractive and allows for more diverse inclusivity of students

3. Developing workshops and courses for external partners based on past requests and successful delivery, as well as new areas that stimulate growth possibilities for partnerships with more male students, industry and society.

4. Tendering research proposals to gain experience on research proposal writing and successfully bid for new research areas that need gender intervention

5. Increasing the level and intensity of outreach activity in a range of formats especially through our web-based platforms and social networking

6. A clearly articulated and aligned programming and administrative management structure and succession planning strategy

7. Establishing the Gender Advisory Board

TEACHING AND LEARNING

We conducted a successful Curriculum Review exercise on January 22-23 2015. Dr. Sue-Ann Barratt and Dr. Angelique Nixon were charged with the planning and organization of delivery for this review and preparation of the report which is attached as Appendix 1. The Institute attracted a number of partners from other faculties among them Film Studies, Science and Technology, Humanities, Social Work and visiting scholar Rhonda Cobham-Sander, Amherst College, USA and colleagues from the Cave Hill campus Drs. Charmaine Crawford and Halimah DeShong.

The major outcomes were in two areas:

SAU programming
a) Productive discussion and planning with curriculum partners on ways to improve existing courses and strategies to design new courses and programs.

b) Extensive review of ten new and updated courses for the St. Augustine Unit and brief discussion/sharing of Nita Barrow Unit’s new courses.

c) Six courses approved for comments from the other campus units and submission to the Centre for Teaching and Learning. For next academic year the SAU is attempted to add at least three of these six new/updated courses our programs and course offerings.
d) The review interrogated the existing programs and establishment of teaching clusters for strategic development and expansion of course offerings and collaborations across campus, as well as streamlining of teaching and research objectives of the unit (See Matrices attached).

Regional Partnerships

a) Discussion and strategic planning around a Foundations undergraduate course in gender as a compulsory first year course for the Regional University.

b) Discussed existing gaps in the graduate program and proposed ways to meet student needs, while also considering research alignment with staff expertise and resources available.

c) Offering modules in existing courses with Caribbean studies partners abroad

d) Discussion and strategic planning of a hybrid (blended online/face to face) professional master’s degree in gender studies.

Short Courses - Summer Teaching

Take an IGDS Course in Summer 2015

Undergraduate Studies

Introduction to Women's Studies: Theoretical Concepts and Sources of Knowledge
Level I Semester I - 3 Credits
GEND 1103 | ART 1C

This course aims to:
- Introduce students to the field and to feminism, which can be defined as a conscious opposition to gender hierarchies;
- Unmask the complex web of oppression and privilege based on race, class, gender and sexual orientation in order to understand their impact on the wider society;
- Celebrate women's struggles for autonomy and empowerment;
- Encourage a sense of personal responsibility to contribute actively to the global development of feminist thinking and action.

Gender and Development with Reference to Caribbean Society
Level III Semester I - 3 Credits
SOCI 3039 | GEND 3039

No pre-requisite

Prior Gender course or Development course is recommended. This course examines the emergence of the field of women and gender and development since its emergence in the 1970s, its agenda and theoretical and policy debates. The feminist critique of 'development' is examined as well as the social, political and economic aspects of gender relations and how they interface with processes of development. The course also provides an introduction to tools for gender analysis which are used for planning and to influence policy decisions.

It is a recommended pre-requisite course for the Minor in Gender Studies and highly recommended for the Minor in Gender and Development Studies.

Graduate Studies

Key Issues in Gender and Transformation in the Caribbean
GEND 7105 (MPhil/MPhil elective)
GEND 8105 (PhD/PhD elective)
4 credits

Key issues in Gender and Transformation in the Caribbean is designed to introduce graduate students to some key issues that have not received serious attention during the first four core courses in the graduate programme. The issues will be determined by the facilitator in consultation with the graduate teaching staff and the graduate student cohort. Consequently they will vary each year. This course is designed as a seminar, providing opportunities for students to meet experts in the field, to discuss relevant publications and to write a research paper on one of the topics. Guest speakers as well as IGDS faculty will teach the course. Students will be expected to give an oral presentation on the readings of one key issue and to produce a research paper on that topic.

[IGDS SAU]
RESEARCH AND PUBLICATIONS

The Institute’s staff continue to be productive both in their personal research agendas and in their unstinting efforts over the last academic year to enhance the collective research profile of the IGDS. Graduate student research is also being aligned with the research themes identified by staff and the IGDS for informed and strategic research supervision and output.

IGDS RESEARCH PROJECTS & PROPOSALS

Unit Projects
1. Research and Development Impact (RDI) Fund project submission Work/Life Balance: Its Impact on the Productivity of Working Men and Women and on the Wellbeing of Ageing Populations. The project examines the contemporary challenges of employed women and men aged 40-55 in the East West Corridor of Trinidad, in balancing their work and family life commitments. In connecting work/life balance with gender and aging, we accept that women constitute the majority of the ageing population, accounting for 53% of the aged compared to 47% males. The life expectation of both women and men has increased over the last two decades. Retired men and women undertake unpaid work as a continued commitment to family, thus relieving the working population of men and women of some of their domestic and care burdens.

The study will examine how concerns as defined by participants of the study, among these traffic congestions, children’s schooling needs and after school care, availability of paid domestic helpers, health and human security issues, and pressures in the workplace, affect the daily productivity of employees. Simultaneously, the study examines whether these challenges are either alleviated by an increasing dependence on the labour and support of aging relatives who reside with or live in proximity to working men and women, or that the care and attention needed by the ageing and the aged has itself become a secondary issue of concern due to the pressures of purse and time faced by working populations. This is an innovative area of research undertaken by no other institution or department within this society and carves out a new discursive gendered area for the IGDS and its engagement with the people we serve.
The IGDS has been successful in winning the bid for this competitive fund which has to demonstrate both academic as well as outreach and impact potential. Preliminary work has begun in setting up the project management. Research on the project will begin in September 2015.

2. Support of the IGDS on Research and Development Impact (RDI) Fund Project "A Matter of Survival: A life-course approach to understanding the decision-making and economic livelihoods of school dropouts in Trinidad and Tobago." The Principal Investigator of this project is Dr. Priya Kissoon (Department of Geography) D. McFee and Professor Mohammed facilitates IGDS as co-investigators. The IGDS has contracted a data analyst to prepare a report on gender data points based on the questionnaire administered by the Department of Geography. The IGDS will in turn prepare a comprehensive analysis of the data as it relates to specific gender issues on school dropouts both in the society and in prisons. The date for submission of both components is September 2015, the deadline for this RDI project.

3 Partner Submission with Dame Nita Barrow IGDS, Cave Hill on EU Call: Girls Lead: Ending Sexual Violence in the Eastern Caribbean. Girls Lead is proposed as a three-year regional project that seeks to address sexual violence against girls and boys as well as the specifically gendered ways in which girls and young women are targeted for sexual assault and harassment. It proposes strengthening institutional responses, centring and cultivating girls’ leadership and supporting community-based initiatives aimed at changing public attitudes. The project hopes to decrease the incidence of sexual violence in the Windward Islands and Barbados of the Caribbean, a severely underserved area in terms of outreach, programming and research. To this end the project adopts a three-fold focus of inter-linked strategies. The Proposal was submitted in February 2015 to the EU Commission (Barbados) through the UWI Office of Research as a University project with the Cave Hill IGDS taking the lead and with partnerships at St Augustine involving both the IGDS and the Department of Social Work. We are awaiting a response from the EU.

PROJECTS AND OUTREACH

The IGDS St Augustine continues to attract project participation and outreach requests from a range of partners both within and outside of the university campus. We are currently able to service many of these activities due to the enhancement of the staff in the area of Outreach with the services of Ms Patricia Hackett who has served as the Gender Desk Officer of the Government of the British Virgin Islands. She is supported also by the graduate students from both the research and MSc degrees who we are avidly training to be representatives and spokespersons for the IGDS.
PROJECTS

Women's Conversation Project
The Women’s Institute for Alternative Development (WINAD) in 2008 introduced a community based project which is intended to mobilize women in selected communities to analyze the impact of gun violence on their lives and their communities and make recommendations for violence prevention and alleviation. In 2015 WINAD is seeking to expand the Conversation beyond violence, and increase the number of communities. Towards this end, WINAD is partnering with the IGDS through the use of graduate students as project support in the areas of research, rapporteuring and report writing.

• 21st April - WINAD/IGDS conducted a sensitization session with five rapporteurs and research assistants( MPhil and undergraduate students) who will gather data during the cycle of the project “Women’s Conversation Caravan: Making our voices Count.”

• 16th May - Patricia Hackett along with four rapporteurs, IGDS MPhil Graduate students and one undergraduate student participated in the WINAD/IGDS Women’s Conversation Caravan: Making our voices Count.” at Biche Community Centre.

• 17th May - D. McFee along with three rapporteurs, participated in the WINAD/IGDS Women’s Conversation Caravan: Making our voices Count.” at George Street Community Centre, Port of Spain
UWI Gender Policy
12th March- 17th April 2015 - IGDS conducted nine consultations/ focus groups with students and staff (ATS and academic) and students’ and staff surveys for the development of The UWI Gender Policy at The UWI St. Augustine.

Conference on Disabilities
23rd – 24th April - IGDS sponsored visiting scholar Ana Maria Sanchez Rodriguez, from University of Massachusetts, Boston, USA to present on “Civil society practices to end violence and abuse of woman and girls with disabilities in Mexico” at 1st of The UWI St. Augustine entitled “Towards Social Integration: Rights, Roles, Recognition of Persons with Disabilities.” This conference was organized by The UWI Network and Outreach for Disability Education and Sensitization (NODES) and The Disability Studies Unit.
