

CONSIDER A MINOR IN GENDER STUDIES OR GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT STUDIES

If you decide Yes, I want to graduate with a minor in Gender Studies!

FOLLOW THESE FOUR EASY STEPS

- ◆ Verify the course/credit requirements for the minor and register for relevant courses.
- ◆ Visit your faculty office and complete and submit the requisite forms. (All students from all faculties can register for a minor.)
- ◆ Ensure you complete and submit these forms by the end of the registration or add/drop period of your final semester.
- ◆ Prepare for graduation by making sure that your minor is completed and will appear on your degree.

Minor in Gender and Development Studies
2016

A minor comprises 15 credits. A student pursuing a major, in any faculty across campus, can use the 10 elective courses at level II/III to pursue up to two minors. One of these can be a minor offered by the IGDS.

A MINOR IN GENDER STUDIES IS WITHIN YOUR REACH

Gender and Development Studies can open many diverse possibilities for future employment. The IGDS academic programme introduces students to relevant global, regional and national development issues; fosters critical thinking; develops strong verbal, writing and research skills, and encourages social advocacy. Increasingly international organisations, state and local governments, non-profit and private sector organisations, colleges and universities are seeking to hire specialists in Gender Studies.
