THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION LIBRARY is committed to the support of the overall vision, mission, and program of the University of the West Indies, the Faculty of Humanities and Education in general, and the School of Education in particular. Our commitment is demonstrated via the production and maintenance of library services geared towards retrieval, acquisition, preservation and dissemination of information in its various forms.

THE INSTITUTE FOR GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT STUDIES (IGDS), ST. AUGUSTINE UNIT (SAU), formerly known as the Centre for Gender and Development Studies (CGDS), the IGDS has its origins in the work of the Women and Development Studies Group (WDSG) at The UWI. Our mission is to produce and disseminate knowledge on gender-related issues in the Caribbean in support of The UWI's mission and to enhance Caribbean development. At the St. Augustine Unit, we offer disciplinary and interdisciplinary courses in gender studies across faculties within The University of the West Indies at both the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. We initiate collaborative research projects that address the relationship of gender to all areas of society. We pursue a programme of outreach activities that includes seminars, workshops and networking events.

IN MEMORIAM

Mark Richardson and Denelson Smith were students of Success Laventille Secondary School murdered on their way home from school on January 21, 2016. Salim Dalzell was murdered outside the school gate of the Success Laventille Secondary School in November 2014.
