PUBLIC FORUM

Mindful that successfully addressing gender inequalities requires the full and equal participation of men and women in the development process, the Institute for Gender and Development Studies, St. Augustine Campus has undertaken a project to develop a tool to comprehensively integrate a gender perspective into deliberations on the national budget. One of the main objectives of this project is to engage in sector-specific research, to make evident the ways in which the budget is translated into people's lived realities at the level of the household.
